BOARD POLICY No. 6023

Outside activities include any activity; paid or unpaid, that requires time and energy from the employee which could have an impact on the college or employee's performance.

An actual or apparent conflict of interests exists when there is or it appears that an employee's private interests could interfere with the proper performance of their official duties or when it conflicts with or appears to conflict with the purposes, goals and principles of COM-FSM, or when the employee is working for or acting on behalf of a vendor or contractor that engages in business or is attempting to engage in business with COM-FSM.

Outside employment is additional employment by a full-time regular employee during the contract period for which compensation is received. This includes consulting and advisory services for pay. Honoraria for lectures or literary articles, private income from investments, and royalties from books are not considered compensation for outside employment, but the activities would constitute outside activities and this policy would apply to such activities.

Employees engaged in employment or activities outside of their duties with the college are not to use any college resources, equipment or facilities to conduct such outside employment or activities.
