Teenage suicide is a fast growing problem not only in our small island of Chuuk ^{BUT} all around the FSM. Before proceeding I would like to mention that what I am about to write is from what I saw my mother going through. Her pain, her suffering, and her agony.

Just by hearing about suicide, we may not quite get how it might feel to be in one of the family members shoes. Yes we sympathize with them, but we don't quite get how much pain it causes. I for one have felt how much it hurts to lose someone you love so dearly. On the other hand, what I felt did not even come close to how horrible it might have been for my mother. The moment she heard the news was the moment everything in her world came down. Of course the news not only affected her, but the whole family as one. Yet, her pain, suffering and agony was singled out of the whole bunch. It was easy to see that right there and then her world had stop^{ped} and everything revolved around what had just happened. Till this day, I can not forget how horrible it made me feel to see her and knowing there is nothing anyone that can do about it.

To say that teenage suicide is a big problem would be more than wrong. Teenage suicide is a huge matter-of-fact even bigger than huge problem. Teenage suicide is sometimes caused by anger, grief, regret and by drugs. Yet, others look at suicide as the way out from being in this confusing thing called life. What they fail to recognize is that it is more painful for the ones they leave behind. The ones left behind will go through a pain 10 times more horrible than what they went through and wanted to escape. The other thing is "LIFE GOES ON". Life doesn't stop with that because life is as the saying goes, "Behind every dark cloud lies a silver lining." After all, life is not perfect, if it was it would have been called a different thing.

To sum everything up, I would say that yes, suicide is a very big and major problem. To settle an exact solution for the problem, I would be at a loss for words. I say this because suicide is a personal choice. Every body was given a freedom of choice, to choose what to do and what not to do. The only thing I could give in the place of a solution is a friendly advice "THINK OF THOSE YOU ARE LEAVING BEHIND. WOULD IT NOT HURT YOU TO SEE THEM GOING THROUGH THE VERY THING YOU TRIED TO ESCAPE FROM? ONLY THIS TIME IT IS 10 TIMES MORE THAN WHAT YOU EXPERIENCED." There for, when you are at the end of your wits, Remember "LIFE GOES ON..." so keep going.
